Dear Neighbor,
The rejection of recent citizen petition by the Nevada Supreme Court has denied voters of a critical constitutional right, and that's why I have already begun work on a bill draft to correct the loophole in the law and restore that right to the public. The initiative petition process is a critical part of the checks and balances needed for good government. It's a real travesty that right here in Reno, voters have been denied the right to have their say on the train trench project. During the next legislative session, I'll work hard to see that the problem is fixed, once and for all. You have my word on it.
