AN ACT relating to criminal procedure; prohibiting the civil compromise of misdemeanor offenses involving domestic violence; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

1 Existing law allows a court to compromise a misdemeanor when the person
2 injured by the act constituting the misdemeanor has a civil remedy, unless the 3 offense was: (1) committed by or upon a judicial officer while executing his duties;
4 (2) committed during a riot; or (3) committed with the intent to commit a felony.
5 (NRS 178.564) If a compromise is granted, the judge may then stay the offense and 6 discharge the defendant. (NRS 178.566) Thus, the compromise essentially serves as
7 a settlement of the criminal charge. The Nevada Supreme Court has ruled that a 8 court may not establish a policy of prohibiting compromises for certain types of 9 offenses which are not prohibited by statute. Rather, if a compromise is not 10 prohibited, the court is required to consider the proposed compromise and make a
11 decision based upon the merits. (Willmes v. Reno Mun. Ct., 118 Nev. 831 (2002))
12 This bill specifically adds to the list of circumstances which prohibit a court 13 from compromising a misdemeanor: (1) an offense that constitutes domestic 14 violence; and (2) an offense that violates an order for protection against domestic 15 violence.
