

Assembly Bill No. 468—Committee on Judiciary

CHAPTER.....

AN ACT relating to civil actions; revising the criteria for determining whether a case must be submitted to arbitration; revising provisions concerning the use of alternative dispute regulation; increasing the maximum number of jurors who may serve on the jury for a short trial in district court; requiring the Nevada Supreme Court to adopt rules and procedures for jury trials in certain civil actions in justices' courts that are designed to limit the length of such trials; reducing the maximum number of jurors who may serve on a jury in a civil action in a justice's court; reducing the number of peremptory challenges that each party is entitled to use in a civil action in a justice's court; repealing provisions concerning the establishment of a mandatory short trial program for certain civil actions in justices' courts; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, certain fees collected by the county clerk for filing a civil action are deposited by the county treasurer into an account for programs of arbitration in the county general fund. (NRS 19.0315)

This bill changes the description of the account to an account for programs for alternative dispute resolution and provides that money in the account may be used to support programs for arbitration and programs for the resolution of disputes through the use of other alternative methods of resolving disputes.

Under existing law, certain civil actions filed in district court where the amount in issue is $40,000 or less must be submitted to nonbinding arbitration unless the parties agree to an alternative method of resolving disputes, which may include a binding short trial. (NRS 38.250, 38.255, 38.258)

This bill increases the threshold amount for submitting an action in district court to nonbinding arbitration to $50,000 for each plaintiff, excluding attorney's fees, interest and court costs. This bill also increases the maximum number of persons who may serve as jurors in a short trial to eight persons. This bill further removes the requirement that a civil action that is submitted to a short trial in district court be binding, thereby allowing such an action to be appealed.

Existing law requires the Nevada Supreme Court to adopt rules for establishing a mandatory short trial program to resolve certain types of civil disputes in justices' courts. (NRS 38.257)

This bill repeals the requirement that the Nevada Supreme Court establish a mandatory short trial program for dispute resolution in certain types of civil cases in justices' courts. Instead, this bill requires the Nevada Supreme Court to adopt similar rules and procedures to limit the length of certain civil jury trials in justices' courts.

Existing law requires that a jury in a civil trial in justice's court consist of not more than eight persons. (NRS 67.020)

This bill reduces the number of persons who may serve on such a jury to not more than six persons and not less than four persons.

Existing law allows each party to a civil trial in justice's court to make three peremptory challenges. (NRS 67.030) A peremptory challenge means the party may object to the selection of a juror without giving the reasons for his objection.

This bill reduces the number of peremptory challenges that a party may make in a civil trial in justice's court to two.
