AN ACT relating to juvenile justice; requiring certain children referred to the system of juvenile justice to be screened for mental health and substance abuse problems; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires the juvenile court to order a delinquent child to undergo an evaluation under certain circumstances. When a delinquent child has committed an unlawful act involving alcohol or a controlled substance, the child must be evaluated to determine whether he is an abuser of alcohol or drugs. The person who conducts the evaluation must report the results of the evaluation and recommend treatment for the child to the juvenile court. (NRS 62E.620)

This bill requires that each child who is taken into custody and detained while awaiting a required detention hearing or who is adjudicated delinquent and committed by the juvenile court to a regional or state facility for the detention of children or ordered by the juvenile court, under certain circumstances, to be placed in a facility for the detention of children be screened to determine whether the child is in need of mental health services or is an abuser of alcohol or drugs. The facility in which the child is detained or committed is required to conduct the screening as soon as practicable after the child has been detained or committed to the facility.

This bill requires each local and regional facility for the detention of children to use a method for conducting the required screening that has been approved by the Division of Child and Family Services of the Department of Human Resources and

18 requires that any approved method be resubmitted for approval every 5 years. This 19 bill also provides that before such a facility may use a new method, the facility
20 must obtain approval from the Division. If the Division does not approve a method 21 for conducting screening submitted by a facility and the facility does not submit a 22 different method for conducting the screening within 90 days after the denial, the 23 Division is required to notify the appropriate board of county commissioners or 24 other governing body which administers the facility and the chief judge of the 25 appropriate judicial district who are required to take appropriate action to ensure 26 that the facility complies with the requirements of the bill. This bill also requires 27 each state facility for the detention of children to use a method for conducting the 28 screening which satisfies the same requirements as the methods used by local and 29 regional facilities for the detention of children. Further, this bill requires the 30 Division to review the method for conducting screening that is used by each state 31 facility for the detention of children at least once every 5 years to ensure the 32 method continues to satisfy the applicable requirements.
