Amend the bill as a whole by deleting section 1 and adding a new section designated section 1, following the enacting clause, to read as follows:

“Section 1. Chapter 239B of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

1. Except as otherwise provided in this section or by specific statute:

(a) If a person or his agent provides the electronic mail address of the person to a governmental entity for the purpose of or in the course of communicating electronically with that governmental entity, the governmental entity shall maintain the electronic mail address in a secure database.

(b) If a governmental entity receives a database pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection 2, the governmental entity shall maintain the database in a secure manner.

A.B. No. 188—Provides that certain electronic mail addresses are confidential and not public records open for public inspection.

(c) A database described in this subsection is confidential and not a public book or record within the meaning of NRS 239.010.

2. A governmental entity may disclose a database described in subsection 1:

(a) In response to an order issued by a court upon a finding that the disclosure of the database is necessary to protect the public safety or to prosecute a crime; or

(b) For any reason to any other governmental entity.

3. Unless otherwise prohibited by a specific statute, a governmental entity may disclose an individual electronic mail address in a database described in subsection 1 if the requester requests the electronic mail address of a specific person.

4. The provisions of this section do not alter, limit or otherwise affect the operation of any statute or regulation of this State which provides greater or more stringent protections for the confidentiality of the electronic mail address of a person.”.

Amend the title of the bill to read as follows:

“AN ACT relating to public records; setting forth that certain databases which contain electronic mail addresses provided to a governmental entity are confidential and not subject to disclosure or public inspection; providing certain exceptions; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.”.

Amend the summary of the bill to read as follows:

“SUMMARY—Provides that certain databases which contain electronic mail addresses are confidential and not public records open for public inspection. (BDR 19-595)”.

If this amendment is adopted, the Legislative Counsel's Digest will be changed to read as follows:

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires certain books and records of a governmental entity to be open for public inspection. (NRS 239.010) Books and records of a governmental entity are not required to be open for public inspection if they are deemed by statute to be confidential or if the governmental entity determines pursuant to a balancing test that disclosure is not required. (Donrey v. Bradshaw, 106 Nev. 630 (1990))

This bill provides that if a person or his agent provides the electronic mail address of the person to a governmental entity for the purpose of or in the course of communicating electronically with that entity, the governmental entity is required to maintain the address in a secure database. Such a secure database is confidential and is not a public book or record, but may be disclosed by the governmental entity which maintains the database to another governmental entity or in response to certain court orders. This bill allows the disclosure of individual electronic mail addresses in the database if the requester requests the electronic mail address of a specific person.
