Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes the Nevada Commission on Homeland Security to hold closed meetings to receive security briefings, discuss procedures for responding to acts of terrorism and related emergencies and discuss security deficiencies relating to public services, public facilities and infrastructure. Under existing law, information and materials prepared for the Commission for such a closed meeting or received by the Commission during such a closed meeting and the minutes and any audiovisual or electronic reproduction of such a closed meeting are confidential and are not subject to subpoena, discovery or public inspection. (NRS 239C.140)

This bill authorizes the governing body of a local government and an advisory body to the governing body which is designated for emergency preparedness and operations to hold closed meetings for purposes similar to those for which the Nevada Commission on Homeland Security may hold closed meetings. This bill also provides qualified confidentiality for information and materials, minutes and reproductions relating to those closed meetings.
