EXPLANATION – Matter in bolded italics is new; matter between brackets [omitted material] is material to be omitted.

AN ACT relating to domestic relations; revising the provisions relating to the determination of custody of a minor after the parents' separation or dissolution of marriage; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, until a court orders otherwise, married parents have joint legal custody of their children. (NRS 125.465) In addition, existing law provides that the best interest of the child must be the sole consideration of the court in determining the custody of a child. Existing law requires the court to award custody in a particular order of preference unless the best interest of the child requires otherwise. In determining the best interest of the child, the court must consider a list of factors. (NRS 125.480) Existing law also establishes a presumption that joint custody would be in the best interest of the child if both parents have agreed to joint custody. (NRS 125.490)

This bill requires the court, as a first preference, to award custody to both parents jointly if the parents have agreed to joint custody. This bill then repeals the presumption that joint custody would be in the best interest of the child if the parents have agreed to joint custody. This bill makes it a second preference for the court to award custody to both parents jointly or to either parent, according to the best interest of the child, based upon the best judgment of the court considering the facts of the case and subject to such conditions and limitations as the court deems equitable. This bill also adds several factors to the list of factors that the court must consider in determining the best interest of the child.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

1 Section 1. NRS 125.480 is hereby amended to read as follows:

2 125.480 1. In determining custody of a minor child in an
3 action brought under this chapter, the sole consideration of the court
4 is the best interest of the child. ~~If it appears to the court that joint
5 custody would be in the best interest of the child, the court may 6 grant custody to the parties jointly.]~~

7 2. Preference must not be given to either parent for the sole
8 reason that the parent is the mother or the father of the child.

9 3. The court shall award custody in the following order of 10 preference unless in a particular case the best interest of the child
11 requires otherwise:

12 (a) To both parents jointly ~~[pursuant to NRS 125.490 or to either
13 parent], if the parents have agreed to an award of joint custody or 14 so agree in open court at a hearing for the purpose of determining
15 the custody of the child.~~

16 (b) To both parents jointly or to either parent, according to the 17 best interest of the child, based upon the best judgment of the 18 court considering the facts of the case and subject to such 19 conditions and limitations as the court deems equitable. If the 20 court does not enter an order awarding joint custody of a child after 21 either parent has applied for joint custody, the court shall state in its 22 decision the reason for its denial of the parent's application. ~~[When 23 awarding custody to either parent, the court shall consider, among 24 other factors, which parent is more likely to allow the child to have
25 frequent associations and a continuing relationship with the
26 noncustodial parent.~~

27 —~~(b)~~ (c) To a person or persons in whose home the child has
28 been living and where the child has had a wholesome and stable
29 environment.

30 ~~(e)~~ (d) To any person related within the third degree of 31 consanguinity to the child whom the court finds suitable and able to 32 provide proper care and guidance for the child, regardless of 33 whether the relative resides within this State.

34 ~~(e)~~ (e) To any other person or persons whom the court finds
35 suitable and able to provide proper care and guidance for the child.

36 4. In determining the best interest of the child, the court shall 37 consider, among other things:

38 (a) The wishes of the child if the child is of sufficient age and
39 capacity to form an intelligent preference as to his custody. ~~H~~

40 (b) Any nomination by a parent or a guardian for the child . ~~H~~
41 ~~and]~~

1 (c) *Which parent is more likely to allow the child to have
2 frequent associations and a continuing relationship with the
3 noncustodial parent.*

4 (d) The level of conflict between the parents.

5 (e) The ability of the parents to cooperate to meet the needs of 6 the child.

7 (f) The mental and physical health of the parents.

8 (g) The physical, developmental and emotional needs of the 9 child.

10 (h) *The nature of the relationship of the child with each
11 parent.*

12 (i) The ability of the child to maintain a relationship with any 13 sibling.

14 (j) *Any history of parental abuse or neglect of the child or a
15 sibling of the child.*

16 (k) The ability of each parent to prioritize the needs of the 17 child.

18 (l) Whether either parent or any other person seeking custody
19 has engaged in an act of domestic violence against the child, a
20 parent of the child or any other person residing with the child.

21 5. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 6 or NRS
22 125C.210, a determination by the court after an evidentiary hearing
23 and finding by clear and convincing evidence that either parent or 24 any other person seeking custody has engaged in one or more acts of 25 domestic violence against the child, a parent of the child or any
26 other person residing with the child creates a rebuttable presumption
27 that sole or joint custody of the child by the perpetrator of the 28 domestic violence is not in the best interest of the child. Upon
29 making such a determination, the court shall set forth:

30 (a) Findings of fact that support the determination that one or 31 more acts of domestic violence occurred; and

32 (b) Findings that the custody or visitation arrangement ordered
33 by the court adequately protects the child and the parent or other
34 victim of domestic violence who resided with the child.

35 6. If after an evidentiary hearing held pursuant to subsection 5
36 the court determines that each party has engaged in acts of domestic 37 violence, it shall, if possible, then determine which person was the 38 primary physical aggressor. In determining which party was the 39 primary physical aggressor for the purposes of this section, the court
40 shall consider:

41 (a) All prior acts of domestic violence involving either party;

42 (b) The relative severity of the injuries, if any, inflicted upon the 43 persons involved in those prior acts of domestic violence;

44 (c) The likelihood of future injury;

* S B 1 0 9 R 1 *

1 (d) Whether, during the prior acts, one of the parties acted in
2 self-defense; and

3 (e) Any other factors which the court deems relevant to the
4 determination.

5 → In such a case, if it is not possible for the court to determine
6 which party is the primary physical aggressor, the presumption
7 created pursuant to subsection 5 applies to both parties. If it is 8 possible for the court to determine which party is the primary
9 physical aggressor, the presumption created pursuant to subsection 5
10 applies only to the party determined by the court to be the primary
11 physical aggressor.

12 7. As used in this section, “domestic violence” means the 13 commission of any act described in NRS 33.018.

14 Sec. 2. NRS 125.490 is hereby repealed.

TEXT OF REPEALED SECTION

125.490 Joint Custody.

1. There is a presumption, affecting the burden of proof, that joint custody would be in the best interest of a minor child if the parents have agreed to an award of joint custody or so agree in open court at a hearing for the purpose of determining the custody of the minor child or children of the marriage.

2. The court may award joint legal custody without awarding joint physical custody in a case where the parents have agreed to joint legal custody.

3. For assistance in making a determination whether an award of joint custody is appropriate, the court may direct that an investigation be conducted.
