AN ACT relating to crimes; revising provisions governing the crime of trespassing; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel’s Digest:

1 Under existing law, a person who commits the crime of trespassing is guilty of 2 a misdemeanor. (NRS 207.200) Existing law further provides that, except when a 3 person solicits a child for prostitution, a person who engages in prostitution or 4 solicitation for prostitution is also guilty of a misdemeanor. (NRS 201.354) A 5 person who is convicted of a misdemeanor generally must be punished by: (1) 6 imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 6 months; (2) a fine of not more
7 than $1,000; or (3) both imprisonment and a fine. Alternatively, instead of all or a 8 portion of such punishment, a person may be sentenced to perform community
9 service. (NRS 193.150)

10 This bill provides that if a person is convicted of trespassing on the premises of 11 a licensed gaming establishment and the person has been previously convicted of 12 three violations of engaging in or soliciting for prostitution within the immediately 13 preceding 5 years, the court may suspend proceedings against the person under 14 certain circumstances and place the person on probation upon terms and conditions 15 that must include attendance and successful completion of a counseling or 16 educational program or, if the person is dependent upon drugs, a program of 17 treatment and rehabilitation. Before the person is assigned to any such program, he 18 or she must agree to pay the costs associated with the program to the extent of his 19 or her available financial resources. If the person violates any term or condition, the 20 court may enter a judgment of conviction and punish the person by: (1) a fine of 21 $1,000; (2) imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 6 months; or (3) both 22 fine and imprisonment. A person may also be sentenced to perform community 23 service instead of all or a portion of such punishment. If the person fulfills the 24 terms and conditions, the court must discharge the person and dismiss the 25 proceedings against him or her. This bill also specifies that such discharge and 26 dismissal by the court is not a conviction for any purpose other than determining 27 additional penalties imposed for second or subsequent convictions or the setting of 28 bail. However, a person may be discharged by the court and have the proceedings 29 dismissed only once under such provisions.
