AN ACT relating to criminal procedure; authorizing courts to allow certain victims of sex trafficking or involuntary servitude who have been convicted of engaging in or soliciting prostitution to seek new trials and have their judgments of conviction vacated; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law provides that it is a crime for anyone to engage in or solicit prostitution, except in a licensed house of prostitution. (NRS 201.354) Existing law also provides that if a defendant is convicted of a crime, the court may grant a new trial to the defendant, under certain circumstances, if the defendant makes a motion for a new trial within a certain period after the verdict or finding of guilt. (NRS 176.515)

This bill allows a defendant who was convicted of engaging in or soliciting prostitution, but whose participation in the offense was the result of having been a victim of sex trafficking or involuntary servitude, to make a motion for a new trial beyond the time limitations set forth in existing law. If the court grants such a motion, the court must vacate the judgment entered against the defendant and must dismiss the accusatory pleading.
