AN ACT relating to land use planning; revising provisions relating to the appeal of land use decisions; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, the governing body of each city and county is required to adopt an ordinance providing that an aggrieved person may appeal the decision of a planning commission, board of adjustment, hearing examiner or other similar official to the governing body. A person who is aggrieved by the decision of the governing body concerning that appeal may appeal the decision of the governing body to the district court by filing a petition for judicial review. (NRS 278.3195) This bill authorizes an aggrieved person also to appeal to a district court a decision of a governing body that considered a recommendation of a planning commission, board of adjustment, hearing examiner or other similar official or a decision of a governing body which was made without the necessity of a decision or recommendation by a planning commission, board of adjustment, hearing examiner or other similar official. In a county whose population is 400,000 or more (currently Clark County), this bill also provides that, for the purpose of determining whether a person who has filed a petition for judicial review of a decision of a governing body is an aggrieved person who may seek judicial review of the decision: (1) the person shall be deemed not to be aggrieved by the decision unless the person appeared before the planning commission, board of adjustment, hearing examiner or other similar official on the matter which is the subject of the decision and before the governing body and fully set forth his or her position and the grounds in support of that position; and (2) the person must not be determined to be aggrieved by the decision solely on the basis that the decision may increase or create competition which the person claims may be detrimental to his or her property rights or other legal interests.
