BDR 3-871 relates to firearms; revising provisions concerning the surrender, sale or transfer of any firearm by an adverse party. Section 1 requires courts to include in an extended protection order against domestic violence a requirement that the adverse party surrender, sell, or transfer any firearm in the adverse party's possession. An exception is provided for an adverse party who requires a firearm as a condition of employment. The BDR revises the penalty for violating the firearms provision of an extended protection order from a gross misdemeanor to a Category B felony. Sections 3 and 4 require courts to include in every judgment of conviction for battery constituting domestic violence a provision that the convicted person is prohibited from owning, possessing, or having under his/her custody or control any firearm and a requirement that such convicted person surrender any firearm. Violators are subject to a Category B felony and possible fine. Section 7 adds to the list of persons prohibited from possessing a firearm; persons convicted of a crime constituting domestic violence or persons subject to an extended protection order against domestic violence. If enacted, the General Services Division (GSD) would need to delete one Nevada Offense Code (NOC) and create another NOC. The NOCs are used by all Nevada criminal justice agencies to share arrest and booking information electronically with GSD's Criminal History Repository and the Administrative Office of the Courts. The revisions and additions of the NOCs can be a time and labor-intensive effort depending upon the complexity of the crimes. The cumulative impact to the division's Criminal History Repository resulting from revisions, additions and deletions to the NOCs must be considered. GSD requests to return to the Nevada Legislature's Interim Finance Committee in the 2016-2017 biennium should workload increases necessitate additional staffing.
