AN ACT relating to civil actions; increasing the limitation on the amount of damages that may be awarded in certain tort actions brought against a governmental entity or its officers or employees; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel’s Digest:

Existing law provides that the limitation on the amount of damages that may be awarded in a tort action against a governmental entity or its officers or employees is $100,000. (NRS 41.035) Section 1 of this bill increases the limitation to $250,000. Section 2 of this bill provides that the increased limitation on damages applies to a cause of action that “accrues” on or after July 1, 2019, the effective date of this bill. A cause of action “accrues” when the right to bring a lawsuit arises. (Clark v. Robison, 113 Nev. 949, 951 (1997))
