AN ACT relating to debt; establishing coerced debt as an affirmative defense in certain civil actions to collect [a] an unsecured consumer debt; setting forth requirements for asserting the affirmative defense of coerced debt; requiring a court to take certain actions upon finding that a debt is a coerced debt; authorizing certain claims and remedies; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law governs the collection of debt by certain persons in this State, including, without limitation, collection agencies and private debt collectors. (See, e.g., chapters 353C and 649 of NRS) Section 1 of this bill establishes that , in any civil action to collect [a] an unsecured consumer debt, a debtor may assert as an affirmative defense that the debt is a coerced debt. [may be used as an affirmative defense.] Section 1 also: (1) sets forth the requirements for [establishing a prima facie] asserting the affirmative defense of coerced debt; and (2) [defines "coerced debt" to mean a consumer debt or any part thereof which is the proximate result of a person having been a victim of domestic violence, human trafficking, abuse, coercion, fraud, duress, threats, intimidation, manipulation or other unlawful conduct intended to induce the person to incur debt against his or her own will.] requires a court, upon finding that a debt is a coerced debt, to order the creditor to cease collection efforts and, if applicable, correct certain records. In addition, section 1 authorizes: (1) the creditor to join a third party who may be liable for the coerced debt or amend its complaint to assert a claim against any such person; and (2) the debtor to recover attorney's fees and costs from the person who coerced the debt.
